An Efficient Training The Fugazzi Aim

Special classes in Salesmanship and Commercial Law for the first term in this year has been opened with an extremely large enrollment and especially the enthusiasm that is developed in the class of salesmanship is beyond expectation of the school. Southern Brothers' School of Business, Lexington, Ky., is putting into their classes for this year more effort and interest in behalf of the students than they have been able to do in the past, due in part to the increased enrollment of students and to the additional knowledge of this line of work that has been acquired by the management and faculty. These particular classes will be in charge of L. P. Southern, who has had years of experience in actual salesmanship in addition to the theory as applied by some of the best men in the profession. This institution is receiving daily students from all parts of Eastern Kentucky and the school has ample arrangements made not only to take care of the enrollment, but nice boarding houses in private families for all students as fast as they arrive in Lexington. They are met at the train by automobile and taken directly to comfortable boarding places.

Mrs. Emily Utterback, a recent graduate of this institution, has just been placed with the Lexington Herald in the office of Mr. Robert Breckinridge in a nice position.

Mr. H. C. Martin was placed last week with the David Ades Dry Goods Company in a very responsible position where we are sure he will prove invaluable to this company.

Mr. Leonard J. Wetzel, of Versailles, was placed the past week with Tunis & Company and we are sure Mr. Wetzel will live up to the recommendation given Tunis & Company by this institution.

Miss Mary Miller has been working the past week for the Blue Grass Auto Company in the office of Mr. Gilkeson and we understand her work was entirely satisfactory.

Miss Gladys Henry was placed the past week with the C. & O. Railroad Company in the office of Mr. Butler and Miss Henry informs this institution that she is having no trouble with her work.

This school now has calls for both male and female stenographers and combination secretaries that they have not been able to fill the past week and hopes to do so within the next few days.

The enrollment for the first week of January in this school was the best in the history of the school and next week being special enrollment week for the first quarter, this school desires to impress upon prospective students to arrange for enrollment the coming week if possible. Write, phone or wire the school at their expense and all necessary arrangements will be made for the convenience and comfort of their students.

The calls for competent stenographers and bookkeepers received by this institution has increased considerably in the past ten days and the indications point to a revival of business in general. In view of this situation and the national shortage of competent stenographers who are educated in accredited schools we feel it our duty to impress upon the prospective students to arrange with this institution at once and prepare themselves to go out into the business world in the near future until fitted to accept a responsible position and be qualified to carry responsibility which will insure for them promotion with an increase in salary.

Mrs. Isaac Hall, Correspondent

Mrs. Joe Bates has returned home after an extended visit with relatives in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Mary S. Atcheson is back here after a long stay with her daughter in Dayton, Ohio.

Stone Meeks, of Catlettsburg, is visiting relatives here.

Everett Carter, Cannel City, is visiting his sisters, Mrs. Merle Fowler and Miss Ollie Carter.

Mrs. Martha Wills is very sick. Bill Hunt, of near here, still lingers near death. He has been very sick for some time.

Barkley Hall, little son of Isaac Hall, is very sick with a cold and sore throat.

James Cassidy, who has spent several days here with his family, will return to Belle Point, where he is drilling in the oil fields.

Mr. and Mrs. Vines, of West Virginia, visited Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Staggs.

A large crowd attended the sale day here Saturday.

Dan Day died at Farmers December 23. On account of high waters his body was brought there to the home of his daughter, Mrs. James Atcheson, and laid to rest under a blanket of flowers at Jones Chapel. Peace to his ashes.

We don't want our friend to die for us. If they will be polite and let us alone, we will be satisfied.—Arkansas Thomas Cat.

HERE'S A RECIPE

Since being in this town of Russell Springs, I have been made about a dozen offers of earning a living, any way from selling silk hose to bootlegging. But seeing as how I don't know silk hose from a horse's nose bag and there is too much competition in the booze game, I have decided to start a moving picture show, but for the benefit of those who like to have a nip I will tell you how to make some.

How to brew this delicious home-wrecker: Take an ordinary garbage can and fill it with bubbles blown from the suds of lux; add four 1921 hard boiled eggs, a pint of Sloan's liniment and an old rubber boot gives it the kick; the more kicks you want the more boots you add. Put on the stove and boil slowly, when the kitchen starts to smell like a soap factory you are on the right track; add a washpan full of wood ashes and an old shirt, but before going any further with this fluid earthquake, be sure your life insurance is paid up. As it comes to a boil add three leaves from the kitchen table, but be sure to remove the oilcloth or it will crumple and you can't use it again. To this conglomeration of voluntary manslaughter add four ounces of T. N. T. and a thimble full of sap. Tap the hall tree for the sap, but be sure your hat is not on the tree, as a thimble full is plenty. As it starts to foam add 2 tire patches to prevent blowouts; then as the lingering suicide starts to settle, dip into milk bottles with a coffee strainer. Fill the corners of the bottles first and bury in an ash heap until the ashes start flying. After taking out you can sample this glorious extirminator, you will find it a great beverage to serve at wakes; in fact, the more you serve the more wakes there will be to attend. After the first drink you can tell your wife that you're boss of the house, and after the second you will imagine you are at an opera, but you are not—it's the angels calling you.—C. P. Wheeler in Russell County Advance.

WINTER AND SPRING BEST TIME TO PRUNE

Farmers may prune their fruit trees safely during any part of the dormant season, except freezing weather, giving preference to late winter and early spring, according to recommendations made by orchard specialists at the College of Agriculture to Kentucky farmers who have inquired as to the best time to do this work. Young trees, which were planted in the fall, can be pruned best in the spring, the specialists say.

"When old apple trees need thinning and heading back it is advisable to thin one year and head back the next," H. R. Niswonger, orchard specialist at the college, said. "All dead and diseased branches should be removed and burned the first year. In removing laterals, it is best to cut close to the main branch in order to eliminate stubs. It is a good practice to cover all large cuts with grafting wax to prevent entrance of disease."

The pruning of trees of this kind should consist in correcting conditions of the lower part by removing small branches, especially those that contain old, worn out fruit spurs. Heavy pruning by cutting out large limbs encourages wood growth near the cut end the following season and reduces production the second year. The removal of large limbs on the lower part and in the center of the tree opens large holes which admit too much sunlight.

"Heading back the main limbs by cutting to a side branch which points down and out will tend to lower the tree top, and make spraying and harvesting of the fruit easier. Heading back by completely removing large upright branches is to be condemned because this treatment opens the top of the tree.

"It is difficult to rejuvenate old neglected peach trees satisfactorily, but those which are healthy and vigorous may be renewed by rather severe cutting back. The tall branches should be cut to laterals and as much as three or four years of the growth removed if necessary. Crowded lateral branches may be thinned and the central ones cut back to encourage renewal of the bearing wood."
